FBIC Helps Businesses Succeed!

The Delaware Center for Enterprise Development's Food Business Incubation Center (FBIC) provides services to start up food businesses to help them to grow into successful businesses. Many clients come to the Center with an idea, unwavering passion, and a willingness to take a risk. That is a perfect description of Mageline Kelly, owner of Mageline's Confiserie who now manages and operates a very successful high-end pastry business.

"DCED helped me. They gave me the guidelines on how to start my business in the right way. They enrolled me in their free food safety training (ServSafe®) class. I wanted to learn everything the right way. They gave me the confidence to go out there and know that I have a good product. They told me how to do a business plan, which I knew nothing about and now, after traveling to Paris for training from renowned experts, I am running a very successful business. I use the FBIC commercial kitchen at least twice a month to make my beautiful and delicious Macaroons I am living in my passion and my business has prospered. I am so glad the people at DCED believed in my dream and were able to help me!" Mageline has been a FBIC client since 2010.
